

The Pledge of Allegiance was written in August 1892 by Francis Bellamy (1855–1931). The original "Pledge of Allegiance" was published in the popular children's magazine as part of the Celebration of Columbus Day on the 400th anniversary of Christopher Columbus's arrival in the Americas.

Bellamy's pledge, originally, in 1892, said:

I pledge allegiance to my Flag and the Republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

In 1923, the words 'to my flag' were changed to 'to the flag of the United States" because of the large number of children in the schools who were from other countries.

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The words "of America" were added a year later, in 1924.

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The United States Congress officially recognized the Pledge for the first time, in the following form, on June 22, 1942:

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Louis Albert Bowman, an attorney from Illinois, was the first to initiate the addition of "under God" to the Pledge. He stated that the words came from Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. Lincoln said, "the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom."

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Eisenhower signed the bill into law on Flag Day, June 14, 1954, and stated "From this day forward, the millions of our school children will daily proclaim, in every city and town, every village and rural school house, the dedication of our nation and our people to the Almighty.... In this way we are reaffirming the transcendence of religious faith in America's heritage and future; in this way we shall constantly strengthen those spiritual weapons which forever will be our country's most powerful resource, in peace or in war."

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.
